HOPE IS SEEN RETURN OF LINDBERGH BABY NEAR

Mills Appears Before Senate Tax Committee

Administration Demand For Greater Revenues Made By Treasury Head

CONTENDS HOUSE BILL NOT ENOUGH

Tax Experts Have Rocky Road To Travel, Protests Are Heavy

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The administration's demand for greater revenues to balance the budget was carried to the Senate finance committee today by Secretary of Treasury Mills as it began consideration of the new billion-dollar tax bill.

Mills protested the House bill would not balance the budget unless further economies were imposed on government expenditures. He recommended that Congress raise more revenue by imposing some additional taxes.

Dispute Arises

There has been a dispute between administration and congressional leaders over the potential revenue to flow from the new tax bill. Mills estimated the increased revenue at $997,400,000 while House leaders fixed it at $1,032,400,000. Mills said the government would need $88,000,000 more to balance the budget while House leaders said the bill would produce a surplus of $23,000,000.

The Senate's tax experts had a rocky road to travel. Some of them want to follow Mills' original recommendation for a manufacturer's sales tax, in order to lighten the heavy burden being placed on specified industries. Others oppose the general sales tax but insist on maintaining the excises which are really a selective sales tax.

The hearings begun with Mills appearance will be continued for the next two weeks. Representatives of the automobile, jewelry and candy industries will protest vigorously against the heavy tolls exacted on their commodities. Their cry will be to impose a general sales tax or else to slash the particular tax placed on their own products.

Criticizes Bill.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Announcement that the city golf course will open soon will prove interesting news to the boys who like to tee off. If rain proves conspicuous by an absence the city course will open not later than April 15.

Unless one has travelled to the different places where men are working for the mayor's relief committee he can scarcely realize the improvements that have been made. Men are at work in almost every section of the city.

With the arrival of the trout season April 15, not only men but boys are getting their tackle in condition. Rods and reels are being tested and lines which may have tangled during the non-fishing season are being untangled.

When the improvement at Jameson park and Walton plan are finished there may be two new playgrounds. No equipment will be placed there according to city officials but there will be plenty of space for the children to romp free of danger.

Although tax cards for 1932 have not yet all been delivered City Treasurer Louis McClung reports that many of the persons have already paid their taxes for the year. These are the people who will not have to worry about paying a penalty months hence.

Pa Newc believes that the time is here for the formation of the Flying Squadron which has performed capably in cases where persons have not come up while swim-

Protest Causes Adjournment Of Gas Rates Case

Fight Of Boroughs Against Excessive Rates Meets Unexpected Opposition

Grove City, Stoneboro, Sandy Lake And Volant Put In Protests

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Apr. 6—The fight of the borbughs of Grove City, Sandy Lake, Stoneboro and Volant against the gas rates charged by the Union Light and Heat Company met unexpected opposition before examiner S. Ray Shelby of the Public Service Commission here today.

When M. B. Klinesmith, counsel for the boroughs, attempted to introduce as evidence records of the company's business from 1926 to 1930, John E. Mullen, counsel for the defendant, voiced a strenuous objection. Basing his plea on the fact that the records were not certified, Mullen insisted they be kept out out of the proceedings.

Hearing Adjourned

Examiner Shelby suggested that they be admitted pending certification. Mullen again objected forcing the examiner to adjourn the hearing until next Wednesday. Klinesmith was told to have the records certified by the Public Service commission in the meantime.

The hearing was devoted to verbal battles between opposing counsel. When R. Hussleman, consulting engineer for the boroughs, took the stand to explain the various entries, Mullen arose with an objection.

New York Delegates Will Be Unpledged

Democrats Will Be Split Up; Republicans Will Vote Solidly For Hoover

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Apr. 6—Practically complete returns from the state primary held to elect delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions today revealed the district delegates will go unpledged.

Both the Republicans and the Democrats selected 86 representatives each.

Political observers estimated the Democratic force would be about equally divided between Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and whatever candidate may be selected by John F. Curry, Tammany leader and John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader.

The Republican contingent was reported solidly for President Hoover.

Secretary of the treasury Ogden L. Mills and Herbert N. Straus won easily over their opponents in the 20th congressional district.

Tiny German Baby Is Dead

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

BERLIN, April 6.—The one-pound baby boy born to Mrs. William St. John of Kansas City had the "atomic infancy" field all to himself today.

Little Vera Gregor, who weighed 18 ounces on her birth less than a month ago, died last night in spite of efforts of Berlin physicians to preserve the tiny child's life.

Vera lived 28 days. She gained six ounces in weight during her life in an electrically heated cradle, but the little body proved too frail.

The baby's mother is Mrs. Kurt Gregor, a Berlin factory worker.

Expect Decision On Talbot Bill To Be Made Thursday

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—A decision on the legality of the Talbot $10,000,000 relief act is anticipated here tomorrow, when justices of the Pennsylvania supreme court meet in a consultation.

The conference will be held in the tribunal's suite in City Hall here.

Approved by both branches of the legislature, the bill was opposed by both Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Attorney General William Schnader, who declared the bill unconstitutional.

The bill appropriated $10,000,000 in state funds for direct relief among needy citizens of the state in food, clothing, shelter, and fuel.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 6.—Congress yesterday gave 40 minutes to Philippine independence, gave 40 minutes, but no independence.

Democrats all voted for it. They are in about the same fix the Philippines are. Sugar and immigration were the things they were voting on, the freedom of a race of people never entered into it.

We better give 'em their freedom while we got 'em. The only reason we ever held 'em this long was because Japan didn't use sugar in their tea, but they are liable to start using it any day.

Athletes Take Part In Breaking Up Gagging Of Alma Mater

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 6.—Students at Columbia University staged a series of fist fights today at the opening of the strike called in protest over the expusion of Reed Harris, crusading editor of the college paper, "The Spectator."

Blows were exchanged between adherents of Harris and a group of students hostile to the expelled editor. The battle was precipitated when 130 student pickets took their posts in front of Academic halls to prevent non-striking students from attending classes.

Students Mix Freely

Adherents of Harris and the students who approve his expulsion mixed freely. The clothes of some of the students were literally torn from their bodies. Glasses were knocked from the noses of some of the students who were pummelled soundly.

Harris was expelled for publishing charges that the restaurant at Columbia was run for a profit by a private concessionaire. Previously, he had criticized the faculty and the conduct of athletic affairs.

Harris was a senior and would have been graduated this spring.

One of the most serious encounters took place on the steps of the library, opposite the offices of President Nicholas Murray Butler. A

Battle Blaze In Cap Factory

Firemen Fight Stubborn Fire Caused By Overheated Electric Iron At Midnight

Firemen were summoned to the State Hat and Cap Company establishment at 12 East Long avenue at 12:30 this morning, where a stubborn fire was found in the work shop room in the rear of the building.

An electric iron had been left turned on, which burned through a table and dropped into a box of caps. The workroom had been partitioned off from the rest of the building and it was hard for firemen to get at the seat of the blaze.

A loss of approximately $800 was sustained, of which $500 was done to the building.

Other Alarms

Firemen answered a number of alarms caused by grass fires and other small blazes during the afternoon and evening, Tuesday.

At five o'clock they were called to the rear of the New Castle hospital, where boys had set fire to grass.

At 6:05, an alarm summoned firemen to Moravia street, where leaking gasoline had ignited in a machine owned by Charles Alexander, causing damage of around $10.

Box 67 at 6 o'clock, summoned firemen to a grass fire on North Lee avenue.

At 11:25, a telephone call summoned Assistant Fire Chief H. Clare Stockman and fireman Malley to a field between Maryland and Beckford street, where a kid's shanty was afire. There was little danger of it spreading to adjoining ground, but an alarm was sent in anyhow.

Asserts He Was Told Baby Will Be Left On New York Street Corner

(International News Service)

BALTIMORE, April 6.—The Lindbergh baby probably will be surrendered on a New York street corner early next week without any payment of ransom, Nicholas Modinis, local Greek restauranteur, asserted today.

Modinis claimed Monday he was appointed by a gang of men whom he believes are holding the baby, to be their "go-between" and asserted this gang had written Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to recognize him as their agent.

He was called twice to New York, remaining there three days on his last visit, and believes the men who met him at the station and conferred with him at the Dixie Hotel, in 40th street, know the child's whereabouts.

Modinis said his last instructions, given him by a man he was told would meet him on a Philadelphia street corner, were:

"Go back to Baltimore and await a long distance call. The baby probably will be left safely on a New York street corner early next week without payment of any ransom

As if conserving his strength Darrow has slouched indifferently at the table in the squalid little court-room only until the prosecution aimed at barring from the record details of the brutal attack by five half-castes on Mrs. Thalia Massie, daughter of Mrs. Fortescue and wife of Lieut. Eleven Persons Hurt In Trouble At Dixie Bee Coal Mine

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 6.—Eleven non-union coal miners and mine officials were injured today in a riot at the Dixie Bee coal mine at Pimento, 10 miles south of here.

Apparently heedless of the warning of Governor Harry G. Leslie yesterday that he would send state troops to the coal fields if rioting occurred, a mob estimated at from 500 to 1,200 persons, wielding clubs, picks and rocks, charged on the non-union workers.

The assault occurred just as the night shift was leaving the mine and the day shift was coming to work.

The rioters were reported to have placed fence posts and logs on the road in front of the automobiles of non-union miners to halt the cars. Then the mob members were alleged to have broken the window glass of the automobiles with their picks.

Brakeman Found Dead In River

All Night Search Results In Finding Of Brakeman In Allegheny River

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa., April 6.—After his mysterious disappearance from a Pennsylvania railroad train, enroute from Pittsburgh to Blairsville, the body of William Morehead, 48, a brakeman of Blairsville, was discovered in the Allegheny river at Karn's Station near here today.

The discovery was made after section crews had traversed the entire route during the night. Railroad officials were unable to ascertain whether he jumped, fell, or was thrown from the speeding train.

His disappearance was revealed when the train stopped at Kiski Junction. A search showed that a trap door on the rear car was open, officials said. This led to the belief that he had fallen through the opening in the dark.

Manned by a section crew an engine traversed the route and found the body shortly after dawn. At this point the tracks run parallel to the river for some distance.

Anonymous Note Writers Now Busy In Scotland

(International News Service)

GLASGOW, April 6.—The Glasgow police today announced receipt of an anonymous letter stating the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was in Glasgow.

The letter caused a sensation because of the fact Major Charles H. Schoeffel of the New Jersey State Police is in Britain on an investigation in connection with the mysterious case.

The communication is being carefully investigated, although the police gave no indication they considered it of greater importance than any of the thousands of other "tips" that have flowed in on Lindbergh investigators in the United States and Europe since the baby was kidnaped.

Many Letters Received

The letter was one of several anonymous communications received by the Glasgow police during the last 36 hours. In it, the writer described the baby he saw and the clothes it was wearing, also giving the type of perambulator in which he said he saw the child.

The writer expressed conviction that the baby was the kidnaped child.

The police also received another letter, in the same handwriting, ad-

CAPTORS OF DAGUE—IRENE STILL AWAIT REWARD

Ask For Issue In Schroeder And Dague Case

Papers Are Now Being Drawn Up For Presentation To The Court

REWARD MONEY IS PAID TO COURT

While the $3200 reward offered for the capture of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, murderers of Corporal Brady Paul, slumbers peacefully in the county treasury, claimants of the reward have been exhausting their resources buying postage stamps in an effort to find out why nothing is ever done about it.

The money was turned into court through Prothonotary R. M. Campbell many months ago. Most of the claimants live in Phoenix, Arizona. They are represented here by attorneys. Recently a meeting of attorneys was held at which some possible action was discussed.

It was agreed that there ought to be an issue framed in order that the matter might come before a jury or a commissioner. Former Judge J. Norman Martin, was appointed to draw up the papers, and it is probable that they will be presented to court soon.

There is some question as to whether the case ought to be heard by the court and jury or by a commissioner appointed by the court. If it is decided that a commissioner be appointed, it is likely that the expenses would have to be paid out of the reward money.

Real summer temperatures prevailed yesterday afternoon, when the mercury got up to 73 degrees. Indications point to the fact that it will not be nearly so warm today, however. In fact, it was down to the freezing point this morning.

MILLS APPEARS BEFORE SENATE TAX COMMITTEE

criticism of the billion dollar tax increase bill passed by the house was voiced by Secretary of the Treasury Mills today when he appeared before the senate finance committee to open a battle for a bill more to the treasury's liking.

One of Mills' chief criticisms was that the house bill tended to converge the major part of the new tax burden upon capital actively engaged in business, and tended to discourage the normal flow of capital into industry.

Also, he contended, the house will not produce as much revenue as the treasury requires to balance the budget, although on that point he differs radically with the leadersr of the house, who maintain it will.

BELIEF PREVAILS RETURN OF BABY IS IMMINENT

home of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh near Hopewell, N. J.

Situation Tense

The tenseness of expectation was heightened by a Newark police official who flatly asserted the world's most famous baby would be returned before sundown tonight.

Cheerfulness seemed to pervade the home atop Sourland Mountain, where the Lindberghs have kept unceasing vigil since their son was stolen from its crib there on Mar. 1. PAGE ONE

A special brand of milk for use of the baby was ordered delivered again to the house for the first time since shortly after the infant was carried out into the night by the kidnapers.

Lights again blazed from the nursery until dawn, although during the baby's absence so far it was kept dark.

Coast guard vessels off Vineyard Haven, near Cuttyhunk, Mass., and near Island-Dotted Buzzard's Bay patrolled the area most of yesterday.

Plane Again Seen.

The mysterious amphibian plane in which Lindbergh himself was reported Sunday to have flown to Cuttyhunk swooped low over Nashawena Island again as if seeking to communicate with someone, then disappeared.

One of the coast guard destroyers was definitely said to be under orders to signal by radio code to navigators of a ship believed to carry the abducted baby and perhaps its captors.

Significance was seen in the face the flounder-dragger Alva, convoyed by coast guard vessels, steamed across the vineyard sound shortly after the plane had covered the same route. The Alva was chartered by a stranger at Chilmark for undisclosed purposes.

Four men aboard were in uniform. The lone civilian sighted was reported to be John H. Curtis, one of three Norfolk, Va., intermediaries of Lindbergh seeking to establish contact with the kidnapers.

Mystery Vessel.

WOODS HOLE, Mass., April 6.—A vessel now outside the 12 mile limit was added today as a mysterious link to the Lindbergh baby hunt.

Unofficially it was admitted to be the object of the search which the massed coast guard vessels made for several days throughout Vineyard Sound and Buzzard's Bay and nearby waters.

The craft was believed to be the 28 foot "Contact" boat Nellie, for which inquiries were made by the four men one of whom reputedly was Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew to Cuttyhunk, Mass., Sunday in an amphibian plane.

Information received by coast guardmen appeared to indicate the Nellie, now near Cox's Ledge, 37 miles southwest from Cuttyhunk Island, was expected to make contact with a ship of foreign registry.

A cook supposedly aboard a vessel usually lying outside the 12 mile limit was reported to have been sought by the four visitors to Cuttyhunk, and thus lent color to the theory the boat may be an important factor in the recovery of the kidnaped Lindbergh infant.

Bring Baby Carriage Ashore.

MASHPEE, Mass., April 6.—A man and a woman with a baby carriage came ashore from a small boat at Waquoit today and disappeared in a wooded road in South Mashpee.

The report of the incident and a subsequent unsuccessful hunt for the man and woman by state police and Chief of Police William A. Mercer, of Mashpee, followed reports that coast guard vessels, under orders in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, were keeping rendezvous of some mysterious sort off the coast of Cape Cod near No Man's Land Island.

Waquoit is at the head of a mainland inlet on Mantucket Sound.

The man and woman with the baby carriage were observed coming ashore by John Jones and his son, Fishermen. The scene of the landing was close to Popponessett.

The fisherman followed the couple to Pinehurst in South Mashpee but lost them in a wooded road.

Meanwhile the boat which brought them to the shore disappeared.

State and town police, notified by Jones and his son, immediately covered the district.

In Boston Captain Charles T. Beaupre, state police hear, who represented Massachusetts at the Trenton police conference a few days after the kidnaping, commenting on activities in southern New England waters, said he thought the baby had been aboard a rum ship. He would not say whether he had any evidence upon which to base his opinion.

Schoeffel Advised

Chief Constable P. J. Sillitoe of the Glasgow police immediately advised Major Schoeffel in London. He said Schoeffel asked the closest cooperation of the Glasgow police and announced he would come to Glasgow shortly to investigate the letters personally.

It was learned that the anonymous letter sent to the Glasgow police stated that the baby had been in this city for more than a week. A high police official told International News Service that the communication was being carefully studied.

"It is up to us to sift every piece of information we get," he said.

It was understood the letter was mailed in Glasgow yesterday.

Meanwhile, Mrs. John Taylor, mother of Betty Gow, the kidnaped baby's nurse, remained in seclusion, refusing to see any visitors.

The police again affirmed their faith in Miss Gow, one spokesman declaring "we have nothing but good to speak of her."

STUDENTS BATTLE AT COLUMBIA IN STRIKE PROTEST

group of students wrapped a black cloth gag across the mouth of Alma Mater, a bronze statue which stands outside the library, and declared their intention of doing the same thing to the statue of Thomas Jefferson, in front of another nearby building.

Football Men Take Part

Instantly there was a rush of students to tear the gag from Alma Mater's mouth. A detachment of husky football players took a leading part in this "rush." They quickly tore down the gag. One of the students seized the gag after this was accomplished and for his zeal he was administered a thrashing. His clothes were torn to shreds.

The strikers carried placards and handbills urging all students to participate in the strike.

"Stand firm for free speech, free thought and liberalism," the placards urged.

Artht— Goldschmidt, member of the Social Problems club, the organization sponsoring the protest, mounted the library steps and declared it was his "sad duty" to inform the students that "We are going to gag 'Alma Mater.'"

Many Knocked Out

"And then," he shouted, "we'll 'gag' Thomas Jefferson."

He and his followers promptly converged on Alma Mater and gagged the statue. By this time the opposition forces had massed.

The anti-Harris students, many of them athletes, rushed the strikers. The athletes were led by Shelly Wood, member of the crew and a substitute on the football team which had been criticized by Editor Harris.

The battle around the Alma Mater statue was fast and furious. Students threw left hooks, right crosses and then resorted to throwing their books. Many of them went down for the count.

Aged Convict Has Confessed Setting Blaze At Joliet

"Was Sick And Tired Of Prison Walls", Only Excuse For Having Started Fire

(International News Service)

JOLIET, Ill., Apr. 6—An old-time prisoner who set fire to the state penitentiary chapel building here because he was "sick and tired of prison walls" was in solitary confinement today, facing an examination by psychiatrists.

He is Lyman Hall, 59, who has served 35 years of a life term for murder.

Hall walked into the warden's office yesterday and calmly announced that he had set fire to the chapel building, adding:

"I hope the whole place burns up."

Two Joliet fire companies, aided by 300 convicts, extinguished the blaze which wrought damage amounting to $3,000. The flames did not reach the electric chair, which is in the same building.

Seascout Week Lively

The Seascout patrol "Lawrence" went on a short cruise on Saturday evening and sat down to a fish dinner in a designated rendezvous. The boys tucked away enough turtle soup and fish to do them for some time. It was their first experience for some of the Seascouts in the ways of the elusive shad and the tasty halibut, but they all proved valiant trenchermen, even Hans Holm sticking to it nobly. All agreed that it was a real event.

This Friday afternoon the Seascouts get under way for Camp Phillips, there to work out some of their tests and also to try out some boat models. Steward Bill Pherson has issued grub orders for each of the crew, and all hands are asked to observe these on pain of short rations. Announcement of sailing time will be found in Thursday's News.

SPARE THE WILD FLOWERS

THE coming of the flower season demonstrated the truth of the observation, often made, that one half of the world is busy undoing what the other half does. It seems the same signs of spring are interpreted by some as the signal to begin planting, cultivating, building and restoring and by others as their cue to begin picking, plucking, digging and destroying.

During the early growing season one can find most anywhere the anomalous situation of men and women planting shrubs and flowers in their town lawns and gardens and recklessly plucking every wild blossom in sight and tearing greens and plants—root, stem and leaf—out of the soil of fields and hillsides bordering country roads. Must one assume from this that mankind is more anxious to make his cities beautiful than to preserve the natural beauties of the open country?

The time is here when the public must choose between gratifying its present desire to pick the wild flowers and greens and its inevitable future desire to drive along motor highways banked with spring flowers and graceful ferns. It can not have both.

Before the automobile came into general use there was some excuse for those who seldom got beyond where the pavement ends to pick every flower and dig up every plant encountered on their infrequent excursions into the fields and hills. Now that the automobile has made the open country almost constantly accessible to nature lovers, the latter should strive to preserve the wild flowers for future visits instead of plucking them at first sight.

BUY AT HOME

What would happen if an employe at a bank should tell its patrons to do their banking business elsewhere, or if a salesman in a store should whisper to the customers that prices were lower and quality higher at another mercantile establishment? In either case the disloyal employe would lose his job and the respect of all.

But isn't the citizen who trades out of town just as disloyal to his home town as the employe who deprives his employer of business? Those who buy by mail or go away to shop are telling the patrons of their town that they could do better elsewhere. They take away from the home town merchants not only their own business but that of others.

Like bargain-hunting and window-shopping, buying at home, with practice, becomes a good habit just as out-of-town trading grows upon one as a bad habit. And it is feared that most mail order and other foreign buying is from force of habit rather than from any hope of profit or gain in satisfaction. Seldom is there a legitimate excuse for trading elsewhere than at home.

What would be the dividends payable to Lawrence county if every citizen on December 31, 1932 could truthfully say he or she had not violated a community resolution for 1932 to "buy at home?" The extra dividends that would accrue to the benefit of the community and each of its citizens would be more business for its merchants, more money in curculation, more employment and more prosperity for all.

FOOLISH DESPAIR

Here is something that is unpleasant to say, and yet perhaps should be said, since the best way to deal with facts is to face them.

There seems to be a growing epidemic of suicide lately. For two years Americans faced their economic troubles manfully. This year there is more evidence of personal depression and despair. Many are giving up the struggle and seeking a quick and irrevocable way out.

Two remarkable facts stand out from such tragedies.

The victims of this deep despair are nearly always men. Women seem to endure misfortune and privation better than men.

The suicides are more likely to be business men than workmen. In proportion to their numbers, the latter stand trouble far better.

Does the burden really fall more lightly upon the women and the workers? It is impossible to think so. But when it comes down to the rock-bottom realities of life, women have more endurance than men. Mentally and spiritually, they are likely to sustain their menfolk when the latter turn despondent, if the men will let them. That is their big service in hard times.

Manual workers, perhaps, are nearer to basic realities than others. On the whole, they are more used to trouble and expect less. Thus they can endure real trouble better, and worry less about unreal trouble. Having little, they have little to lose.

The troubles of business and professional men are more of the imagination. They worry about losing what they have, or what they have never had. They are driven by pride, shame and fear, beyond all reason. They are less able to face simple, human facts and accept basic human values.

A good thing for any despondent business man is to talk to some poor and philosophic laborer.

A good thing for any despairing man is to talk to some sensible and courageous woman—wife, mother, sister or friend. There is nearly always some one at hand.

How Many Ancestors Have You?
Thousands of Them From William Tell to Robinson Crusoe

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I heard a man boasting of his ancestors, spouting proudly of the rich blood that flowed in his veins and poured from them when he cut a finger.

His grandfather was a senator, his great grandfather a general. He had an uncle who went down to the sea in ships and long ago, in the old country, there was an ancestor who was a baron and fought great battles and went on crusades. And there was another who was smiled upon by queens and conspired against and had his head chopped clean into a bloody basket. What famous ancestors that man had!

Shucks! Everybody's got ancestors. Everybody that ever lived—rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief—is an ancestor of ours. Every man, every woman is an ancestor of ours.

One of my ancestors was a caveman. He killed a deer with a club and cut out its liver with a stone knife and ate it raw.

Another of my ancestors was a lake dweller in Switzerland. Another came to America with Eric the Red and he had a great-great-grandson who sailed with Columbus. There was another who came with the Normans to England and he was killed at the Battle of Hastings by my English ancestor. I have so many ancestors I can never keep track of them all.

Charlemagne and Roland, who blew his horn in the desperate pass. . . . William Tell and the lad who held the apple on his head. . . . That bold Robinson Crusoe, the boastful Benvenuto Cellini. . . . The Dutch boy, who put his hand in the dike; Samson, who pulled the temple down; David who fought Goliath, and Goliath, who died of the slingshot. . . . Caesar, who conquered Vercingetorix with the long mustaches, and Vercingetorix, whose spirt would not die. Spartacus, who led the gladiators to rebellion. Don Juan and Henry VIII. Santa Claus and Daniel Boone. Caruso with the golden voice and John Brown, whose soul goes marching on. General Grant and Lincoln and Casabianca on the burning deck.

Every man I can think of was my ancestor.

The fox that lost his tail and wanted all other foxes to lose theirs. . . . The dog in the manger. . . . Thomas Burns, who liver wretchedly but wrote a poem about a field mouse. . . . The great Charles Dickens. . . . Dumas the romancer. . . . Hamlet the irresolute, Henley with the unconquerable soul. . . . The capable Little Red Hen. . . . A tree I loved, a dog I patted, a house I lived in, a job I lost, a spring morning, a yellow flood, a joy, a jealousy, a grief, a bit of praise—all these, Proud Fellow, are ancestors of mine. . . . Go your silly way and boast of your little ancestors. Had I mind to argue, I'd boast you up the street and down the street and shame you red as a red, red rose.

Ancestors! you foolish fellow, all that we know and all that we have done or read or hoped or failed to do are ancestors of ours. So you didn't know that?

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE

Here's the simple lesson which the world today is learning,
The man who keeps from spending keeps another man from earning.

When a man to please his lady buys a diamond-studded collar,
The men who shape such trinkets get a chance to earn a dollar.

When a woman goes out shopping, though at home her husband rages,
There's another woman somewhere glad to get her husband's wages.

If we practice self-denial 'gainst a dreaded rainy season,
There are children who will suffer for the very self-same reason.

If we've money and won't use it for our needs or our enjoyment,
We're just keeping other people from their regular employment.

We are living in a circle—on each other we're depending,
For each man who isn't earning there's a man who isn't spending.

That is a side of the story seldom told.

Literature is full of Shylocks who get their unholy profits by stealing the humble homes of widows and orphans, but nobody is fair enough to tell how many times Shylock is defrauded of his money. Literature must appeal to the crowd, and borrowers are more numerous than leaders.

Far too much maudlin sympathy is wasted on people who are required to pay their debts.

You hear that Bill Jones and his family are about to lose their home. A year ago they borrowed money and gave a mortgage on their house as security. Now the lender threatens to foreclose and take the property if he isn't paid.

How the Joneses revile him! He is a cruel and heartless brute. He is a sharper and a crook. He is stealing their property. And they will hate him so long as they live.

But do not mingle your tears with theirs until you examine the facts.

Shylock loaned them the money in good faith. It was his money. Getting it had cost him much effort. Each dollar of it meant as much to him as to anybody else.

They promised to pay it back. They intended to be honest. But the money was spent for a car and now the car is worn out.

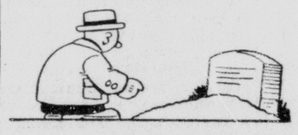

Even if they had the money to pay the loan, they would pay reluctantly and feel misused by Fate. It is hard to pay for benefits long forgotten. It seems unjust.

But all Shylock demands is what belongs to him. He wants his money back. Perhaps the property won't bring enough, in these hard times, to repay the loan. In any case, he must spend considerable time, endure much annoyance and suffer hurt to his reputation merely to get back the money that rightfully belongs to him.

What do the Joneses want? Do they wish to defraud him of his money? Do they expect him to play Santa Claus and give it to them?

They got the benefit of the money. They spent it. Now let them replace it, if it takes their shirts.

And let Europe in like manner pay back the money taken from American pockets. The man who deserves sympathy on pay day is the one who has a hard time getting what belongs to him.

Roosevelt's Primary Gains Give Confidence To Backers

New York Governor, By Big Majority In Georgia, Clinches Claim To Position As Leading Contender For Democratic Nomination

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, it is conceded by all interests in the Democratic party, has an impressive lead in the contest for the party nomination for president. The demonstration of his strength in Georgia, taken in connection with results elsewhere, is accepted as showing impressive progress.

"What is clear now," according to the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL, "is that there is a great opportunity for the Democratic party with Roosevelt, since something about him pleases voters in widely separated regions." The BRISTOL HERALD COURIER remarks that "his candidacy manifestly is popular with the people, and the fact marks him as the most logical choice of the party." The OMAHA WORLD-HERALD says: "Wherever a test is afforded of the Roosevelt strength, the result is the same, only sometimes it is more so. Georgia, the Empire State of the South, is the latest to give evidence. And it votes ten to one for Roosevelt."

"It would not be surprising," thinks the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST, "if he enters the convention with between 500 and 600 for the first ballot. If he has enough second-choice strength in the states that merely wish to compliment favorite sons, it will be all over but the shouting." The SIOUX FALLS DAILY ARGUS-LEADER takes the position: "A few more victories such as those already recorded are likely to start a rush to the Rosevelt band wagon Democratic politicians are no different from those of other parties They are eager to be on the side that is scheduled to distribute the spoils and when the trend is clearly outlined, they'll jump quickly in the direction of victory. Of course, there are many large states in which the Roosevelt strength has not been tested. A few upsets may take place and change considerably the present aspect of the convention picture."

"His popularity appears to extend to all sections," agrees the DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT, with the advice of his opponents that "if they hope to head him off, they will have to do some mighty clever maneuvering between now and the time of the Chicago convention."

"Georgia's choice of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination," records the ATLANTA JOURNAL, "was so emphatic, indeed so nearly unanimous, that it loomed out as the peak of the country's political news. Every county of the 159 went overwhelmingly for the New York governor, while the state as a whole gave him a majority of eight to one. Never before has the Democracy of this commonwealth spoken with such singleness of mind or such wholeness of heart. * * * His sweeping success in Georgia makes Governor Roosevelt pre-eminent in the field, and bring much nearer the assurance of his nomination at the Democratic national convention. In this our state finds keen satisfaction; for, with a leader whose courage and wisdom and proved devotion to the interests of the rank and file commend him to the common country, the Democratic party will read its titles clear to victory in November. And that leader is Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"His victory in the Georgia preference primary," according to the COLUMBIA (S. C.) RECORD, "was of course, not unexpected, though the magnitude of his majority may surprise some. * * * And yet Governor Roosevelt is a wet, an advocate of repeal of the 18th amendment, believing in state rights. And Georgia is a dry state." The NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE offers the interpretation of the campaign: "In some Georgia precincts, it is noted, the vote for Roosevelt was unanimous. No serious opposition was developed anywhere. So the New York executive has carried handily all three of the March presidential primaries that were expected to test his popularity and measure his strength in the Democratic national convention. In all three the 'stop-Roosevelt' folk concentrated their support upon a single rival candidate. In New Hampshire 'Al' Smith was the contestant decisively beaten. In North Dakota 'Alfalfa Bill' Murray figured as the rival and losing candidate. In Georgia Speaker Garner of Texas was cast for that role by the insistence of his admirers. His successive victories in these three widely separated states, each representing a different section of the nation, give Governor Roosevelt an impressive lead in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination."

"His list of delegates grows steadily, but the man who is successful at Chicago will need 770," observes the NEW YORK SUN, while the TEXARKANA GAZETTE calls the result in Georgia "almost unprecedented in political history in the south." That paper continues: "Roosevelt's victory over his opponent, who favored the candidacy of John N. Garner, was so great that the New York governor's chance of being nominated at Chicago have been appreciably increased. Georgia's attitude may be taken as an indication that other parts of the south will not hold back when the time comes for them to speak. Garner is a Texan and a favorite son. For several weeks talk of the speaker of the house as an available candidate grew more and more pronounced. Then came his 'outspoken silence' on prohibition at a time when other members of the house were required to record themselves as wet or dry, and the defeat in the house of the sales tax, which Garner had insisted be passed as one of the best ways of balancing the federal budget. The net result of the developments of the past week is that Roosevelt is in a stronger position than he was and Garner in a weaker position."

"It is not conceivable," thinks the CHATTANOOGA TIMES, "that the result would have been different, but the campaign would have been more entertaining and the vote perhaps considerably larger if Governor Murray had not been late in filing notice of his candidacy. It is just as well, however, that the south has been spared a Murray campaign."

JUST ANOTHER "IF"

In connection with the Washington anniversary, just celebrated, it was brought out that the Father of His Country came near inheriting his own father's iron mines, and so almost became an iron master instead of the first President. Now, it develops that the next most famous American, Abraham Lincoln, by a strange coincidence, has ancestors identified with the iron industry of eastern Pennsylvania, and had they not migrated west, Lincoln, too, might have entered the trade.

Thus, two potential iron masters became in one instance the Father of, in the second, the Savior of, his country.

COLLEGE AND THE FOLKS AT HOME

You youngsters at college, aren't you negligent about writing home?

You say you are so busy you can't find time.

Oh no, you are not.

You devote many hours to pleasure or doing nothing each week.

You could write a sizable letter in half an hour.

You could find that much time to write some message to your parents.

You don't write because you are selfish, to speak plainly.

You prefer some kind of amusement to denying yourself a few minutes from pleasure to make your parents pleased and happy.

The folks at home are always more or less anxious about you and to miss a letter at a certain time is alarming to them, and it hurts.

You always find time to write home for money.

Suppose your father were to say that he has been just too busy to send you a check and let you wait with a dime or so in your pocket?

That would not be mean—it would be your just deserts and might teach you that you are not altogether independent, if you are modern.

Abe Martin

"It's almost worth while t' git married jest t' git th' rice an' ole shoes," said Miss Violyette Pash, 15, t'day.

"I've noticed one thing in th' last few years," said Coroner Ike Moon, t'day, "an' that is that folks that stay home Sunday live longer."

IT IS NOT

Our money, but our spirit, that makes life interesting.
Our amusements, but our work, that makes life worth while.
Our friends, but our difficulties, that spur us on to the greater achievements.
Our popularity, but our purpose, that makes us great.
Our fame, but our faith, that supports us in the day of rough going.
Our promises, but our performances, that make our reputation.
Our words, but our works, that build the future.

Struggle Occurs Between Republicans And Progressives For Delegate Seats

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Apr. 6—In a spirited battle of ballots Republican Progressives and Democratic supporters of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt were leading their respective opponents today in the count of votes cast in Wisconsin's party primaries.

The closest struggle was waged in the Republican camp where a slate of Progressive candidates for delegates at large to the national convention forged ahead of a group of conservatives regarded as favoring the renomination of President Hoover.

Returns from 709 out of the state 2,845 precincts gave the Progressives headed by Senators Robert M. LaFollettes and John J. Blaine, 174,882 votes. After leading for a few hours in the count of yesterday's ballots, the conserative Republicans faction fell behind to trail the Progressives with 158,487 votes in 700 precincts.

The Roosevelt candidates amassed 142,562 votes as against 68,123 for their opponents in the precincts tallied.

War Vets Control St. Johns, N. F., Following Riot

Premier Sir Richard Squires And Officials Forced To Resign

POLICE POWERLESS IN HALTING MOB

Capital Stormed By 10,000 After Unemployment Parade, Scores Injured

(International News Service)

ST. JOHN'S N. F., April 6.—World War veterans today were in control of the city, following a riot staged by 10,000 civilians who stormed the House of Assembly, wrecked the building, and forced the resignation of the government. Scores were injured.

Police, who were powerless in last night's demonstration, were still unable to maintain order today. Citizens obeyed only World War officers and the veterans under them on the streets of the capital, while most of the police were bottled up in the assembly building by an irate crowd which milled outside.

Premier Resigns

The war veterans closely guarded the private residence of Prime Minister Sir Richard Squires, who narrowly escaped serious injury in the riot when he was aided from the legislative building to his home by three clergymen, who quieted a small portion of the mob which recognized the premier as he was hurried away.

The crowd remained turbulent until the resignation of the premier had been announced, after which a semblance of order was restored although hundreds remained outside the assembly.

Officials Resign

Soon after the premier's resignation had been made public other government officials handed in their resignations to the governor.

The outbreak, in which stones were hurled, windows smashed, and many persons injured, was the culmination of months of distress from unemployment and dissatisfaction with the government policy. Two policemen and two civilians were taken to hospitals with serious injuries.

The disturbance was not premeditated. It began with an orderly march of the 10,000, comprising men, women and children, to the capital to demand an official investigation of charges that the minutes of the executive council had been falsely written. The demand had repeatedly been refused.

Riot Breaks Out

The march was orderly, and the crowd waited for some time outside the building while its spokesman attempted to gain an interview with officials. Parliament was in session.

Finally, irked at the delay, one portion of the mob began breaking down fences for weapons with which to pass the police lines and enter the building. The riot was general immediately, as police used nightsticks to beat off the invaders.

The prime minister, the police chief, and several policemen were held captive for several hours in the executive chamber, which was guarded effectively as the attacking civilians threatened to throw Sir Richard into the harbor.

JOBLESS TO GARDEN 40-ACRE TRACT

WELLSVILLE, O., April 6.—Associated Charities yesterday accepted the use of a 40-acre tract near the Oak Ridge school, owned by Charles Swearingen, which will be converted into small garden plots and cultivated in an effort to cope with the unemployment relief problem.

Approximately 75 plots will be assigned to applicants for relief, who will be expected to cultivate and seed the acreage.

In addition to the pictures exhibited in the National Gallery, London, 500 masterpieces have been stored in the basement.

BUSINESS WOMEN KEEP THEIR EYES ON DAME CALORY

Leave it to the business women to settle a question in a direct and efficient manner.

They had a problem a short time ago and they solved it better than could those experts the "sisters of the skillet." Dinner is served to the New Castle club of Business and Professional Women at each of the meetings. It is delicious always but until recently the club members never got their full enjoyment out of it because—well, because they kept wondering how many pounds excess weight it would produce. If they only knew how many calories the food contained.

And now they do. The printed menus are strange strange looking things but set the mind at ease. Here is the list of calories served at Monday night's dinner: (Yes, some of them resisted the angelfood cake, almost, but after nibbling off a bite, decided to wait until next time to start the dieting.)

Buttered carrots	20
Brown or white bread	100

Armory Plans Being Prepared

Kuntz Starts Work On Plan For Troop F Armory For New Castle

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 6.—Joseph F. Kuntz, of Pittsburgh, has been approved as architect for the new armory to be constructed in New Castle, it was announced today by the department of property and supplies.

Appointment of Kuntz was recommended by the state armory board following its last meeting here March 24.

While construction plans for the armory are being prepared by Kuntz, officials of the board said the deed for the tract of land at Scotland Lane and West Washington street was being investigated by the department of justice.

Officials of the board are eager to begin construction of the armory and, according to Benjamin W. Demming, executive secretary, are rapidly clearing away all technical details thus far delaying actual building.

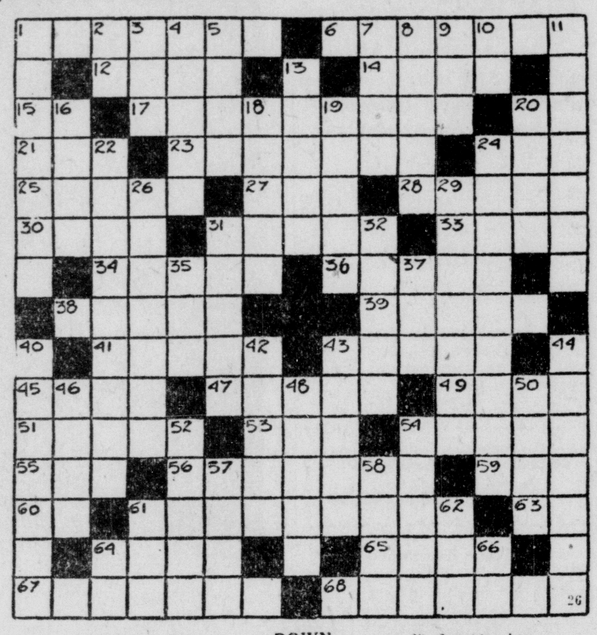

MAILS TO CARRY HOME 'E' GRADES FROM HI SCHOOL

Uncle Sam's mail service will be depended upon by Senior High school authorities to carry "bad" grade reports of the poorer students to the hands of parents. The new plan was introduced by Principal F. L. Orth this semester.

Before the new part of the school term started the school sent "unsatisfactory" blanks out before the students were handed their reports, but in many cases, the school office learned, the advance warnings were ignored.

On or about April 26 the parents should receive any "failing" reports of their sons or daughters, Prof. Orth announces.

Father Kenny C. P. Makes Fine Address Before Wolves Club

Wives Of Members Are Special Guests Of The Meeting Tuesday Night

Meeting of The Wolves Club held Tuesday night at the Elk's Club was unusually successful and interesting. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Fr. Stephen Paul Kenny, C. P. of St. Paul's Monastery, Pittsburgh, who gave a most wonderful address on the deeds of the present time.

Following the dinner, Dr. J. P. Prioletti, the president presided. He called upon D. D. Valiensi, chairman of the program committee to take charge, and he in turn took over the meeting and introduced E. F. Strizzi, who after suitable remarks telling of the inability of Rev. Father Lucien of St. Paul's Monastery to be present, introduced Father Kenny.

Father Kenny stated that he desired to bring a message of hope.He said we were inclined to look on the dark side of things, when we should look on the bright side. While it was impossible to entirely forget the dark side, he said, we should take courage and keep on doing our part and help others, even though it meant a sacrifice.

During the dinner, M. Prestopine furnished music on a concert accordion, while Francis DeSanctis sang a solo very effectively. Wives of many of the members were guests of the evening.

Those present were: Frank C. Summers, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Fazzone, Anthony Sacco, Alfonso Scarazzo, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cassimiri, Leo P. Strizzi, Albert Thomas, N. V. Navarra, Dr. A. Masters, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Capitolo, Frank O. Moretti, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Carbon, Mr. and Mrs. John Verlotto.

The suit was based on a note given by defendants to plaintiff in 1919, for some goods sold at a public sale. The not was originally for nine months.

USE CITY OWNED LOTS AS GARDENS

It appears very likely that scores of city-owned lots will be converted into gardens by unemployed this spring. Several unemployed men have already received an allotment of ground for garden purposes from the city. Last year many gardens were located on city owned land.

On Tuesday, several persons visited the city's legal department third floor, city hall, and were granted the privilege of using city property.

The land loaned to the gardeners compose lots which have been taken by the city for delinquent taxes. By converting the lots into gardens the persons in need are aiding themselves.

Nearly $700,000 Spent By State In Lawrence Co.

Report For Year Shows $671,848.79 State Road Money Spent Here

Between June 1, 1931, and May 31, 1932, the total amount of state money used in building roads in Lawrence county will total $671,848.79 according to an announcement received today from Harrisburg. In addition to this enormous sum of money, there was the usual maintenance costs on the highways already constructed and those not yet paved.

More men were employed on highway work in this county during the past winter than were ever used before. This was due to the construction of roads by the state forces instead of private contractors. Even in January, when construction was difficult, there were 183 men at work on highways in Lawrence county.

Percentages Paid

The percentage of the total cost of road work paid to local labor follows: Reinforced concrete (contract) 24 per cent. Bituminous surface treated macadam (federal aid contract) 33 percent. Rural roads, useing napped stone base, 58 per cent.

The fiscal year started June 1, 1931, the budget for the present biennium being $76,000,000. Of this sum $28,300,000 was set aside for maintenance of state highways, for unpaid township reward, and for surveys, engineering and similar purposes. The balance or $47,600,000 was set aside for construction on main routes and rural roads. Of this, $32,674,119 had been spent on March 1, leaving but $14,925,881, for the balance of the fiscal year.

New Racket Is Tried Out Here

New rackets are in evidence every day and the latest one tried out here, is that put over on a well known South Side Merchant yesterday.

The proprietor of the store was approached in the morning by a man, whom he presumed to be a farmer and asked if he wanted to purchase a case of fresh eggs.

The merchant wanted the eggs and bargained for the case, at the rate of thirteen cents a dozen. Some time after making the purchase, the merchant decided to unpack the eggs.

Instead of thirty dozen that goes to make up a case, the merchant found that he had purchased nine dozen for a case. These were on top and the bottom of the crate was filled with broken pieces of tile, etc., to give it the required weight.

The merchant is looking for the supposed farmer, but indications are that ths egg salesman is far away.

The painting is by Joe Walter who apparently takes neither art nor politics seriously

HONOR BIRTHDAY

Social Time Is Enjoyed By Club

Mrs. John Wilson, of Wilmington avenue, was hostess to the B. W. R. club Tuesday evening. The meeting was well attended and the members and special guests found the games most interesting.

An unusual game was a guessing contest, the prize for which was won by Frances Johnston. The members had brought their baby pictures to the meeting and the guessing furnished considerable amusement. The club prize was won by Florence Good.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Wilson, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Hutton. Special guests were Mrs. Hazel Grim and little son Dick and Miss Elizabeth Taylor.

CEMETERY WORK

Once again, if the weather is suitable, a day of work will be donated to Valley View cemetery grounds and buildings. The work was started some time ago but not as much progress has been made as was hoped because of the weather conditions on the days chosen for the work.

SIGNS OF SUMMER

A group of young men were engaged in a baseball pitching practice on West Wabash avenue Tuesday afternoon, some younger boys were intent on a game of marbles, and seven girls were skipping rope. When the firemen give up their rummy playing for a game of horseshoes, summer will be officially in.

Mission Board To Print '31 Record

Directors Act To Inform Public Of Welfare Service Accomplished

The City Rescue Mission plans to present for the information of the public a duly-audited statement of its relief activities of the past year, as a result of Tuesday night's session of its board of directors. The report will likely be announced soon.

Superintendent B. J. Watkins was authorized last night to continue his general solicitation for funds to keep the institution operating. Miss Pearl Weaver has been chosen to perform Mr. Watkins' inside duties.

Eight members of the board heard a summary report of March work last night, part of which showed that an average of 200 families are daily receiving free milk thru the Mission; 2,301 persons were fed, and 405 were provided beds to sleep in. A more detailed report will follow.

The directors plan to elect officers for the new year at their May 10 meeting.

Flick High In Bessemer Shoot

M. H. Flick again captured first place in the semi-weekly shoot of the Bessemer Rod and Gun club at their range at the Metropolitan Brick No. 2 plant last night. Flick had a score of 179 out of a possible 200 score. Second place went to C. Cramer, who had 177, and third place was tied by three of the members Conner, Weaver and Drake with 174 apiece.

There were 30 members of the club present, according to Archie Shoup, and a fine time was had by all. The next shoot is Friday night at 7:30 o'clock.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Perhaps your musical ear is attuned to grand opera and the classics. If it is a frog concert would be just so much noise to you. But if you haven't reached that advanced stage where ordinary things pall, you might have been interested in a concert we heard last night out beyond the city limits.

The soloists and the chorus were frogs and their voices seemed to be full of spring. Their music runs mostly to contrapuntals, with now and then some baritone frog breaking out into an obligato that stood out like a pine tree on top of a mountain.

An enjoyable concert, if you like that sort of music, one that seemed to promise bigger and better concerts as the nights get warmer. Just a rehearsal last night, one that loosened up the vocal cords and got the boys back into the harness.

Saw another harbinger of Spring going up the street in a truck. A big wooly Merino sheep, with horns that looked like a pair of cornucopias that had gotten themselves twisted.

What a few shade trees in the front lawn can do to a sewer is something you have to see to believe. Out our way one of the sewers became lethargic, wouldn't run off the water, backed into cellar and played hob in general.

Business of digging down seven or eight feet to find the recalcitrant sewer and after digging out a section or two the trouble was found. Roots had wormed themselves into the tile, flourished like the green bay tree and had finally pre-empted the sewer for a private dwelling place.

Pennsylvania now has a state tree, the hemlock. For many years the state had to flat wheel along without such an official designation, but that's all changed now. The tsuga canadensis (hemlock to you) is now the tree that marks Pennsylvania and all the best families are putting them in the front yard.

This state has no state flower. Others have them and the flower minded insist that Pennsylvania should have one. But what one? It should be a flower within the reach of all, it should be a native flower, and probably should be a wild flower.

This colyum would like to know what some of you think about the matter. The dogwood has been suggested as a native Pennsylvania flower that should be adopted as the official state flower. One young lady whose tastes are rather expensive suggested the rose as her first choice and the gardenia as the second.

Flowers of that type hardly fill the bill. The only thing wild about a gardenia is the purchaser when he pays the bill. Someone else has suggested the trillium which isn't half bad. What's your idea?

Art Goebel Fails To Break Record

Airman Forced Down By Cold Weather At 17,200 Feet

By COL. ARTHUR C. GOEBEL
(International News Service)

DETROIT, Apr. 6—Unable to operate my oxygen tank because of the extreme cold at 17,000 feet the attempt to make a new altitude record with a Diesel powered plane failed Tuesday. Mechanics are placing the tank in position which will offer easier access to the valve and if the weather holds out another try will be made some time today.

The weather for the hop Tuesday was clear, but the moment my ship got off the ground the temperature began to drop rapidly. At 17,200 feet my hands were so numb I could not even feel the valve handle. Altogether the flight took one hour and 24 minutes.

Times like these teach people a lot. Five years ago relatively few knew about the 30 days of grace.

STORE RAID NETS LIQUOR QUANTITY; LADY OWNER HELD

Cunningham Avenue Store Is Visited By Police; Hearing Set

A store at 916 Cunningham avenue was visited by constables and city police shortly after 10:30 o'clock last night and as a consequence the proprietress was being held on bond today, pending a hearing before Alderman Wallace J. Ewing on a charge of possessing and selling liquor.

Mrs. Mary Giamarino, operator of the store, posted $1,500 bond last night for a hearing Thursday evening.

Constables Frank C. Conner, second ward, and W. R. Waddington, East New Castle, aided by City Officers U. G. Harper and M. J. Young visited the place after complaints had been registered.

The officers seized 2½ barrels of wine, 96 bottles of beer and several quarts of whiskey, they report.

New Jersey Dry Fails To Crash Speakeasy Spots

Philadelphia Wet Tries Unsuccessfully To Prove To Dry Opponent

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 6—There's some doggerel going round in the speakies of the town of a man who finds it hard to gain entree. You may whisper "hooey" but the boys are going screwy as they try to keep a "customer" away.

Joseph S. Clark, Jr., found it's later than it's sooner when he tried to crash the peep-hole with a tourist. Dr. James K. Shields (dry). Sealot's fire in his eye, cried triumphantly Clark's wet claims are the poorest.

Clark Determined

Clark and Dr. Shield, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, recently debated the wet-dry issue. Clark, head of the local chapter of the Crusaders, "dared" the clergyman to accompany him on a tour of speakeasies in the Chestnut Hill district.

Dr. Shields accepted.

Difficulties ensued today. The speakeasy proprietors balked. They admitted they feared unwelcome disclosures later despite Dr. Shields' promise not to tip off police.

Clark still expressed hope today. He said:

"I expect to be able to take Dr. Shields through the speakeasies in a week or ten days."

School Expenses Slashed At Sharon

Cut Of Two Mills In Taxes Likely To Result

SHARON, Pa., April 6.—Members of the city school board have announced drastic economy measures which will reduce expenses for the coming year approximately $30,000 and permit a tax reduction of probably two mills. The economy plans teachers, salary reductions of 10 per cent or to the minimum under the state laws and the closing of the South Ward elementary school for one year. At the special session Friday evening the salaries of other school employes will be adjusted and teachers for the coming year will be hired.

To simplify the matter of wage reductions and dismissals, all members of the present faculty who will be affected have been asked to submit resignations. Under the proposed two-mille tax reduction the revenue for the year would be approximately $414,000 if all taxes were collected, but under the present rate of collections, the proposed economies hardly will be sufficient to meet expenses, according the directors.

Miller of the department of art, Miss Lydia Bancroft, A. Bruce Denniston, Dr. L. H. Wagenhorst and Irene Kramer.

New Castle Store
20 Miles To Youngstown
34 Miles To Warren

The Distance Between 3 Retail Stores of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

APPROXIMATELY 34 miles between our three large retail stores . . . Warren, Youngstown and New Castle. And within the trading area there reside about one-half million people,

We venture the opinion that few among that half million haven't in some manner or other heard about Sears, Roebuck and Company. And probably a large proportion have used Sears merchandise.

Realizing that Sears Service to the great number of families in this section must be constantly enlarged and improved, these three stores have joined together in buying quantities of new, seasonable merchandise—and they join together to sell it at extremely low prices.

No matter which store you select for your patronage—Warren, Youngstown or New Castle—you will be sure of a substantial saving from April 8th to 16th.

COMMANDER SAYS LEGION WITH HOOVER

RALEIGH, N. C. Apr. 6—The American Legion is standing squarely behind the mandate of its national convention against further bonus legislation. National Commander Henry L. Stevens said here.

He declared only 23 legion posts out of 10,400 have "kicked over" by endorsing such legislation.

"The proportion of individual legionnaires favoring bonus action is larger" the national commander continued, "but I have made official visits to 37 states and I find that legionnaires generally are backing up their national convention in opposition to any bonus legislation at this time.

"Legionnaires as a whole are perfectly willing to "play ball" and most of them who would like to see a different policy are perfectly willing to wait and try to bring it about in an orderly way through action of some later national convention."

Butler Cuts Down School Expenses

BUTLER, Pa., April 6.—Twenty-seven thousand dollars was slashed from the budget of the Butler city Board of Education for the school year 1932-'33, and the school tax levy fixed at eight mills for all school purposes—the same as last year—by the board of education in regular monthly session last night.

A reduction of $10,000 will be seen in the appropriation for teachers alone over that of last year. This has been brought about by the discontinuance of the continuation school, retirement of certain other teachers who are to retire this year and those who will cost less than the ones whose places they fill and the abolition of additional salary for extra work.

New Expedition May Seek Lost Explorer

Report by Jungle Trapper That He Had Met Colonel Fawcett in Amazon Wilderness Revives Hope for Explorer Missing Seven Years.

The report of Stephan Rattin, Swiss trapper, who recently returned to Sao Paulo, Brazil, after a journey through the wilds of the upper Amazon, that he had met a white man in the jungle who said he was a British Army colonel, has renewed hope in England that Colonel H. P. Fawcett is still alive. Although Rattin's story is not given much credence by Brazilian authorities, British officials think it worth investigating and a movement is on foot to send an expedition into the jungle to seek traces of the missing explorer and his companions. Since Fawcett, his son, Jack, and Releigh Rinell, an English youth, plunged into the jungle wilderness of Brazil to seek a lost civilization their fate has been veiled in mystery. Many search parties have penetrated the region where they were believed to have been lost in an effort to solve the riddle of their disappearance. Colonel G .M. Dyot, English explorer, led an expedition into the Amazon country and gave his opinion that Fawcett and his companions were either killed by Indians or had died of privations. However, there have been many reports that the lost colonel is still alive. Several jungle wanderers have claimed to have seen and spoken with him. One of the most notable was Luiz Lebuc, former chief of police in the Brazilian town of Cuyaba. Lebuc was positive in his identification of the Colonel. However, scientists and explorers who know what conditions are in the wild country, are certain that Fawcett could not have survived for seven years in a region where death reaches out in many forms for the white man.

FORTUNE HANGS OVER NEW CAPITOL

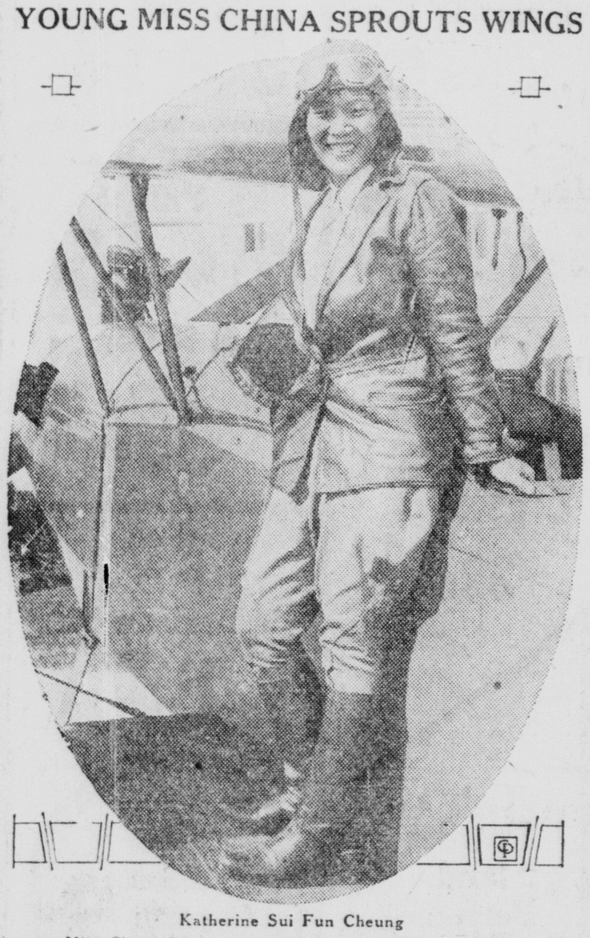

Louisiana's new $5,000,000 state capitol at Baton Rouge, containing 33 stories, is the tallest building in the south. If, on April Fool's day, 500 years from now, in the year 2432, the building still is standing, the heirs of J. D. Stotler, below, will receive $2,084,495,605.22. If it has been demolished, heirs of R. E. Collins, above, will come into the fortune. Stotler and Collins, Baton Rouge store managers, recently deposited $2.50 each with the Louisiana National bank to run for 500 years at 4 per cent interest, compounded semi-annually. The unique contract is held to be legal and binding. The capitol, erected by Senator Huey Long, former governor, casts its reflection in University lake, an artificial pond.

Alma Mater Victim at Students' Protest

When more than a thousand Columbia students attended a protest meeting staged on the steps of the University's library in New York, an innocent bystander, none other than Alma Mater herself, was socked with a soft apple. The meeting was staged by friends of Reed Harris, expelled editor of the Columbia Spectator. While Jerry Dicker (inset) was addressing the gathering an unsympathetic listener tossed the no-account fruit, hitting the noted statue lady on the forehead as our picture shows.

YOUNG MISS CHINA SPROUTS WINGS

Katherine Sui Fun Cheung

Young Miss China, in the person of Katherine Sui Fun Cheung, Los Angeles, sprouted wings the other day when she got her private pilot's license. She is the first Chinese girl in the United States to obtain a flyer's license. The girl came to the United States in 1926 to study at the Los Angeles conservatory of music from which she was graduated some months ago.

Consuela Mariotta

Losing faith in heaven helping the poor working girls after she lost her job with a Guadalajara, Mexico, firm, Consuela Mariotta organized a woman workers' protective association in that city. The organization now provides members with legal services and pays court costs for employed women who are not given their rights by their companies.

Distinguished Visitors to U. S.

One of England's most beautiful women, the former Valerie French, granddaughter of the late Field Marshal Earl of Ypres, is shown with her husband, Lord Brougham and Vaux, as they arrived at New York for a visit. It will be recalled that on Lady Brougham's last trip to the United States, two years ago, she was reported engaged to Bradley Martin, New York society man. She married Lord Brougham in London last year.

Three Magellans in a Boat

Unworried by the prospect of the storms and long, long trail ahead of them, these three adventurers are shown as they shoved off from New York in their little 16-foot boat on the start of their journey around the world. The tiny craft is capable of 35 knots an hour and the modern Magellans hope to cover the 7,000-mile course they have mapped out in six months. They are, left to right: Thomas J. Hand, Brooklyn, N. Y., Robert L. Johnson, Queens, L. L., and Roger Miller, Hackettstown, N. J.

Returning Student

Paris, London and Berlin may be the goal of many an American's ambition, but, somehow, the returning wanderer is always glad to get back home. Virginia Dawes, daughter of former Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, is no exception. She is shown on her arrival at New York after a six months' study trip to Paris.

84 Pounds in 48 Days!

When Prospector Andy Taylor got lost in the Canadian "bush" in northern Manitoba for 48 days it cost him just 84 pounds. Taylor is shown as he emerged, after he had been found by a plane pilot. A scarecrow of his former self, his weight had dropped from 198 pounds to 114. His clothes were tattered and torn to shreds by the undergrowth through which he had forced his way. He lived on frogs and berries.

Honor Twins

One honor student in a family is unusual, but when there are two—well, that's something to shout about. To the Greenough family of Proffit, Va., goes that distinction, for Amherst College has honored the Greenough twins, Tom (top) and Bob, with election to Phi Beta Kappa. Bob is also president of the Students' Council, the highest honor a student can win. Both youths are also active athletes, Bob being quarterback on the varsity eleven and Tom starring at soccer.

Miss Clarke, a student at Honolulu High School, first entered swimming competition five years ago. She has defeated the best of native swimmers since.

MEET THE GIRL WHO LURES YOUR INTEREST DAILY

You have seen this young lady many times—in newspapers and magazines, on posters and billboards—telling you to smoke this brand of cigaret, to purchase that automobile or to use this kind of laundry soap. She is the "ad" girl whose charm is employed to entice buyers to purchase the product she happens to be "putting across." She is Miss Betty Johnson, 21, of New York.

Dr. Clendening Shows How Drastic Measure May Harm Intestines

Repeated Colonic Irrigations Used By Person In Ordinary Health May Make Invalid, Avers Physician

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

It is perhaps perfectly natural for people to worry about the health of their large intestines. They know that it periodically evacuates very noxious material. And they assume, quite properly, that this noxious material is contained in the colon for long periods before it is evacuated. And then they assume, quite improperly that it must do a great deal of harm there. And, finally, they come to a conclusion which is positively dangerous, that they ought to try to keep their own large intestines entirely free from this material.

On every side there can be found something to confirm this point of view. Here is an article in the magazines about "Intestinal Sewerage" The person in the frame of mind described begins to think of himself as merely a sewer. That does not add to his happiness. Here is the picture of a woman with head bowed in hands and "Are you tired all the time? underneath and you know what is the matter with her, all right. Her sewer is clogged.

Well, now, did it ever occur to you that Nature knows her business pretty well? 'She made the trees and the flowers and the birds and the tides and the stars, and one can guess that she did not make such an awful mistake about your colon. The fact is that there is almost no absorption of noxious material from the colon into the blood stream.

It may be comforting to people who are colon-minded to read the words of one of the best known specialists in stomach and bowel disorders before the section on digestive diseases of the American Medical association: "It might be said that the natural condition of the colon is to be more or less full, and any attempt to keep it empty by strong laxatives or large enemas or flushing is based on a misconception of the function of the colon and will be likely to cause harm. The colon should have the same consideration and care in relation to disease as any of the other viscera, and should not receive any more abuse than any other organ when there seems to be a dysfunction."

The habit now widespread, which many people get into, of regular and frequent colonic irrigations (internal baths) which attempt to flush out every particle of the contents of the colon, are almost invariably harmful. They cause the colon to become abnormally irritable, and the patient to become weak and to have digestive disturbances that get worse rather than better under the repeated irrigations. Then the irrigations are made more drastic and the result is a real intestinal invalid indeed.

This does not mean that there are no diseases in which colon irrigations are beneficial. They are beneficial in certain cases of mucous colitis and ulcerative colitis. If properly given in such cases—with a soft short tube, and gently and slowly—they have a distant place in treatment.

But for a person in ordinary health who decides he needs a "thorough cleaning out" they are more likely to do harm than good.

W. A. Seifert of the Union Trust Building, Pittsburgh, has been retained by the Sand Company to represent it in the proceedings.

Upon receiving medical attention, it was found the break was quite severe, it being the second time this has happened within the past eight months to the same shoulder, and it is doubtful as to how the bones will knit.

Phar Lap, Famous Australian Horse Fatally Stricken

Idol Of Australian Turf And Recent Agua Caliente Winner, Is Dead

DEATH RESULT OF ACUTE INDIGESTION

By MILLER HOLLAND
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MENLO PARK, Calif. Apr. 6—Declaring himself mystified at the death of Phar Lap, Australia's great thoroughbred, Dr. William Nielsen, veterinarian, told International News Service today he planned to ask for a pathological examination of the famous animal's stomach.

"I hesitate to say Phar Lap was poisoned, but I also hesitate to say it was a natural death due to colic, as appears on the surface," Nielsen declared.

"But in all my fifteen years experience as a veterinarian I've never seen a horse die so quickly. He was apparently only slightly indisposed in the morning. That afternoon he was dead."

At the peak of a racing career that stirred the admiration of the world, Phar Lap died at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his stall at the stables of the Ed Erry ranch here. An autopsy made a few hours later by Dr. Nielsen and Dr. Caesar Massero of San Francisco, showed the stomach highly inflamed. Dr. Masero said it was undoubtedly colic.

Nielsen, who has taken care of Phar Lap ever since the big gelding was a colt in New Zealand, recalled the attempt made on the horse's life last year at the Caulfield track, Melbourne.

"An automobile drove up to Phar Lap's stall and somebody leaned out with a sub-machine gun or automatic pistol and emptied it at him," Nielsen said. "They missed him by three inches. They got away and we never could find out who they were."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Although Finnish athletic circles here and abroad feel confident Paavo Nurmi will be restored to good standing with a clean will in time for the Olympic games, the runner's temporary suspension abroad has caused him to cancel plans for an early competitive campaign in the United States.

President Herbert Hoover will abandon the cares of his office next Monday long enough to throw out the first ball in the season's opening ball game at Washington. The Senators are scheduled to play the Boston Red Sox.

Charles Crovatto, Pittsburgh, reached the finals of the Junior National Amateur Boxing tournament last night when he outpointed Albert Jesky, Detroit in the 147 pound class.

Geneva Proceeds With Track Plans

BEAVER FALLS, April 6.—Preparations here for the fourth annual Geneva Interscholastic track and field championships continue serenely. The meet which a year ago attracted 61 schools will be staged at Reeves Stadium, Saturday, May 7. By an unfortunate occurrence this is the same day as the Pitt Interscholastics but apparently there are sufficient schools in this section of the country interested in track activity to make both meets successes.

Some 30 schools have signified their intention of appearing in Beaver Falls on May 7th and within the near future this list should take a sizeable jump. In addition to regular events for Class A, B, and C teams Graduate Manager Edgecombe is arranging several relay races. A one mile relay will be held for all three classes and an 880 yard sprint relay for Classes A and B. A 440 yard sprint relay will be conducted for all classes in addition to an Open Medley Distance relay and an Open Shuttle Hurdle relay. Among the recent entries received are those from Erie Tech, Struthers, Aspinwall, Sharon, Pittsburgh Oliver, and Youngwood.

The most important thing for a youngster to learn if he hopes to become a good pitcher is control.

Westminster Track Team Starts Drills Indoors On Tuesday

Large Squad Reports For Titan Cinder Path Team At College

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 6.—Candidates for the varsity track team at Westminster College reported to Coach R. X. Graham yesterday afternoon in the college gymnasium and held their first workout of the season. Drills will be held indoors until weather conditions are certain and the upper field track is in shape for drills.

Headed by Captain Harry Brownlee, Tri-State Conference hurdles and hammer throw champion, the Titan squad has plenty of balance and ability. From last year's team which swamped three dual meet opponents and placed second in the Tri-State Conference championships there are McCall, Harper, Burry, Smalley, Siljander, Brownlee, Coles, and Williams for the running events, and Clark, Yourd, Brownlee, Siljander, Fuller, and Patterson for the field events.

Among the new men freshmen available are Sweeney, Hogg, Simpson, Klumph, Lockley, and Leyshock for the running events, and Rush, Hunneke, Rose, Scarbrough, Helmick, Regdon, Young, Franklin, Headlee, and Kopp for the field events.

It is also possible that Phil Rice, Bill Douglass and Ted Blaner, members of the basketball squad, will report for the team within the next week.

The Titans will have three dual meets, will compete in the Tri-State Conference championships, and will enter Captain Brownlee in the Penn Relays.

Scholastics collected 14 points and St. Mary's seven in the first half of the game. In the second the New Wilmington five scored 21 points while the Reserves garnered 11.

Favored for Kentucky Derby

Here is C. V. Whitney's great filly, "Top Flight," ruling favorite to win the 1932 Kentucky Derby. The horse is quoted in the Winter books at 8-1. Should "Top Flight" win the Louisville classic she will be the first filly to achieve that honor since Regret flashed to victory in 1915. Jockey Workman, up in this photo, will probably pilot the horse in the great event.

Crowds Not Flocking To Baseball Parks To See Big Timers Play

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Apr. 6—The wild wish to see those major leaguers strutting and toddling over greenwards was not very wild in the minor league towns which they so far have visited.

Taking the attendance reports that have filtered in from the Pacific slope and the sunny south, it would seem that it is still a bit too chilly in those regions to warm up the citizenry in mass quantities. Either that or they arent so excited about the game as in other years.

Giants Draw Well

The Giants have drawn well because the Giants were making their first appearance on the coast and in the far west. The Yanks have done quite well. The Cardinals, with Pepper Martin serving as the human magnet, and also because they are the champions, report a fairish business. But nothing of the rosy tint is noticed in the attendance reports submitted by the other combinations.

However, even if the minor league towns sort of cold-shoulders the major league troupers, the financial bozos find much comfort in the fact that the opening games of the regular season will be played or capacity or near capacity.

Test For Baseball

This is a test year for baldom. Things went rather blotto through the ebbing month of 1931. The attendance during the final weeks was, in most places, a box office tragedy. Hard times was blamed for this condition by some, whereas others incline to the belief that the game has lost in popular favor.

The ensuing season ought to tell. Business conditions in 1932 hardly will be worse than in 1931. Therefore, based on that, the gates ought to click as often as they did last year. But if there is a further slump the magnates are confronted with the sad fact that the lads and lassies no longer go wild and wilder still over the national game.

Which would not be a happy looking picture for men who have millions invested in talent, franchises and enormous stadiums.

Second Hartford Player Injured

(International News Service)

MACON, Ga., April 6.—Misfortune continues to dog the Brooklyn Dodgers and their farm club, the Hartford team of the Eastern League. Roy Humphries, Hartford outfielder, fractured a leg sliding into second base here yesterday as his team lost to Brooklyn, 7 to 5.

Hartford had suffered a similar loss the day before when Charley Sheerin, their first baseman, also fractured a leg.

Telephone operators in Vienna are on what they call a "passive strike." If that means that they are refusing to give wrong numbers, the subscribers don't care.—The Milwaukee Sentinel.

COUNTY LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

Lawrence County League Meeting Called Tonight By Samuels

Tonight at 8 o'clock at the Sporting Goods Store the Lawrence County League officials and managers will meet for an important discussion of the coming baseball season. President Alec Samuels will have charge of the meeting.

The matter of election of a set of commissioners to rule the destinies of the league will be taken up this evening. Just who will be named is not known at this time.

It is hoped that a fast eight-team league can be formed this year. Wampum, Hillsville, Brent, Universal Sanitary, Mahoning A. A., Scarazzos and Shenango Pottery have so far signified their intentions of again joining up with the league. Another fast team is reported ready to accept a franchise tonight, thus making it an eight team circuit.

Any teams wanting a franchise are asked to attend the meeting tonight. Plans for drawing up of a suitable schedule will be made tonight. The league will likely shove off sometime in May.

Chicago White Sox Given Lambasting

(International News Service)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 6.—A chastened gang of Chicago White Sox performers today contemplated their 8 to 4 defeat yesterday at the hands of the Nashville Volunteers. Three pitchers—Lyons, Gaston and McKain—were unable to stem Nashville's batting assault which produced 15 hits, while the best the major leaguers could do was a scant total of four.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

George Washington
No. 44. A Delegate To Congress

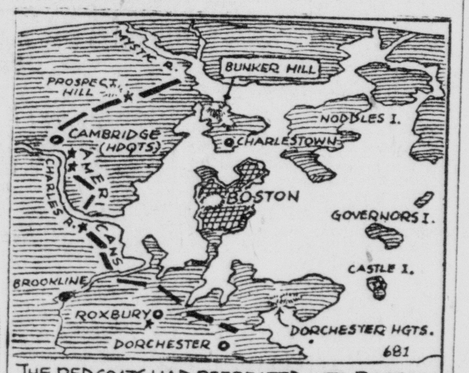

AFTER THE FIRST CONTINENTAL CONGRESS (1774) ADJOURNED, THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT CONTINUED ITS FLAGRANT ATTACKS ON AMERICAN LIBERTY AND SOON IT WAS EVIDENT THAT WAR MUST COME BETWEEN THE KING AND THE COLONISTS . . . . . .

ON HIS RETURN TO VIRGINIA COLONEL WASHINGTON WAS BUSY ORGANIZING MILITIA COMPANIES AND GATHERING MILITARY SUPPLIES. ALL THE COLONIES FROM MAINE TO GEORGIA WERE ARMING FOR DEFENSE.

BEFORE THE 2ND CONTINENTAL CONGRESS CONVENED AT PHILADELPHIA IN MAY, 1775, FIGHTING HAD OCCURRED AT LEXINGTON AND CONCORD (APRIL 19TH). CONGRESS FACED THE TASK OF UNDERTAKING A WAR AGAINST THE MIGHT OF GREAT BRITAIN.

THE REDCOATS HAD RETREATED INTO BOSTON, WHERE THEY WERE NOW BLOCKADED BY EVER-INCREASING NUMBERS OF NEW ENGLAND MINUTE MEN. CONGRESS TOOK OVER THE BLOCKADING FORCES, WHICH NOW BECAME THE CONTINENTAL ARMY.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stocks Rally Some After Early Selling

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 6.—Opposition of the Treasury to the proposed stock tax increase and to the levy on dividends brought a rally after the stock market had gone to new lows today.

Heavy selling came into the list from the opening gong and most of the leading stocks, including U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Motors, General Electric and Dupont, went to new lows with losses ranging from 1 to more than 3 points.

Unsettling influences were the charges of fraud in the Kreuger & Toll situation, the sharp decline in car loadings in today's report and the depressed state of the steel industry as revealed in the weekly Iron Age Review.

An overnight break of nearly 3 points in Atchison, further reflecting the dividend cut to $4 from $6 yesterday, weakened the rails. Union Pacific went down 2 points to a new low and fresh bottoms were established by such representative rails as N. Y. Central, New Haven and Baltimore & Ohio.

Copper stocks were further unsettled by lowering of the export price to 6 cents a pound. The whole group sold down to their lows.

Kreuger issues broke sharply on the fraud charges. Kreuger & Toll fell to 50 cents a share, it's all-time low, while International Match lost nearly half its value, slumping to 2. Their bonds showed losses running to 10 points.

Selling dried up at the end of the first hour and leaders made slight recoveries.

Girl Injured In Automobile Crash Asks $13,819.07

Case Of Mabel B. Long Against James Sakleton On Trial At Court

Damages in the sum of $13,819.07 was asked by Mabel B. Long, of Ellwood in a suit against James Sakleson of this city, which is on trial before Judge R. L. Hildebrand, at county court today. The suit grows out of an automobile accident on the New Castle-Ellwood road on September 23rd, 1928.

About 9:30 on that evening Miss Long was riding with C. E. Elliott in the direction of Ellwood City. There was another car ahead of them belonging to a man named Lovejoy of New Brighton and believed to have been driven by a man named Campbell.

When near the Smiley gasoline station a car was seen approaching from the opposite direction. It was swerving on the road. It sideswiped the Lovejoy car and then struck the Elliott car.

Miss Long, who was in the front seat was thrown against the instrument board. She was cut by flying glass from the windshield which was broken, and was severely injured about one knee. She also sustained a severe shock to her nervous system.

She was laid up for some time after which she went to Florida and later to California in the hope of regaining her health. For a long time she was compelled to walk on crutches.

It is claimed that the accident was due to the careless operation of defendant's car.

Spring Reveals Many Plots Beautified During Winter By Relief Committee Work

Seeing is believing and now that spring weather has arrived it is possible for those who like to see their city enhanced in appearance to visit different projects started during the winter months and which are still being carried out.

Hundreds of men who were put to work through the Mayor's Relief of committee have worked faithfully and hard on the projects. The plans were mads by Councilman Louis Genkinger and on each project there was a 'foreman'.

As a result Gaston park, Jameson Park, Rural Avenue hillside, The Narrows, east bank of the Neshannock creek have been enhanced in appearance and work is now under way in Walton plan and one can note the improvement by visiting the sections Sunday.

Gaston park, a thirty acre plot owned by the city was nothing more than a jungle of underbrush last fall. There was one clearing for the children on top of the hill. Things are different today. In fact the park now is a place of beauty which a nature lover can appreciate.

Beautiful Terrace

The underbrush has been removed. Hundreds of small trees have been separated by transplanting. The ravines through which creeks flow have been walled with stone. Terraces have been built, flower beds arranged and sidewalks and driveways made.

And Jameson park, south of the Jameson Memorial hospital once three acres of stone, brick and other debris is now practically ready for planting of grass and when completed it will be one of nicest plots owned by the city.

Entering Leasure Avenue from Wilmington Avenue, one travels perhaps 150 yards and it is impossible to miss seeing what improvement has been made. The hollow, formerly filled with stone, brick and other debris has 'disappeared'."

There is no debris to be seen. Instead one sees a terrace, probably 300 feet long and approximately 150 feet wide and the wall for retaining the dirt has been built, in some places, six feet high.

Debris Hidden

The dirt which was used to cover over the debris was secured from hills which perked their tops here and there in the hollow. They were graded down as was the plot south of the Leasure Avenue curb.

The wall is not yet finished but may be within a week or two. Meanwhile the expert touch is made to the terrace and when it is completed grass will be planted not only along the terrace but all over the several acres plot.

Shrubbery will be placed on the terrace. Trees will be planted here and there as also in the level portions of what formerly was the hollow. On the west end of the terrace there will be a park with shade trees. Benches will be put there.

It will prove a far different place to those who have not seen the section for years and by the time the breezes of July fight their way through the hot sun Jameson park should be one of the neatest looking plots in this section.

To Set Out Elms

Improvement has got under way on the Walton plan which it might be explained is situated east of Delaware Avenue, from a point near Clenmore boulevard to the city line and extending into Neshannock township.

It is a woodland containing stately oaks, nice elms, dogwood, in fact all kinds of trees. Here and there are big open spaces which it is planned will be made into playgrounds for children.

The plan was laid out years ago and it is now planned to place elm trees back of tne 'curb' of all of the streets in the plan. Clearing of the underbrush and trees in the prospective 'cartways' (though none are there yet) got under way today.

The lines of the streets are being run by city engineers and like other projects, the work is being done by the men from the mayor's relief committee and within a few weeks the improvement will be very pleasing to the eye.

Natural Beauty Lanes

Rural Avenue hillside shows the result of the work that has been done there during the past week or two and along the Narrows, the point near Rural Avenue has been cut off. Perhaps a thousand ton of stone has been quarried there this year.

The stone has been placed like a wall along the hillside. It will be hauled to the east bank of the Neshannock creek where a wall will be built north of the North Street bridge. A wall south of the bridge was built last fall.

While these jobs were being done another crew of men were at work at the municipal golf course. Stumps were removed from the woods, stones taken from the course and a lake has been built and buildings painted.

The men who have been doing the work are Mayor's Relief committee employes. The improvements of the ground was laid out by Louis Genkinger, superintendent of city grounds with the consent of his council, anic colleagues.

Supervising Work

J. K. McQuiddy, Owen Fox, and other men have acted as 'foremen'. McQuiddy had charge of the Gaston park job and started the improvement at Jameson park which now is in charge of Owen Fox. Harry Hoskins, city engineers department, is aiding in the Walton plan work.

Oppose Tax On Shotgun Shells

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6.—Pennsylvania sportsmen and game conservation officials are pretty well unanimously opposed to the idea of placing a one cent tax on each shotgun shell, according to information presented this week to the Special Committee on Conservation of Wild Life Resources.

The Senate committee is holding hearings on a number of conservation bills and a measure which proposes to levy a tax of one cent on each shotgun shell. Early in the hearing three spokesmen testified from Pennsylvania, all going on record as opposing the cent-a-shell tax.

The witnesses from the Keystone State were John M. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, formerly on the Pennsylvania Conservation Commission; Colin Reed, president of the Federation of Pennsylvania Sportsmen's Clubs, and Paul Roth of Reading, representing the Reading Gunning Club.

WIFE BLAMED WRONGLY

For Failure of "Married Life"

"My husband and I were very happy for the first two years after we came to America from Austria," writes Mrs. Mary Brink of McKeesport, Penna. "He got a fine job in the machine shop right away and we saved our money and we both took lots of pleasure in our home and adopted country and our life together.

"But after about two years, I began to feel that the food and climate here in America did not agree with me. It was not like what I had been used to back home in Austria, where I had always been so well and strong and lively. I grew weak and nervous and I was not able any more to give Emil, my husband, the love he craved and deserved. He did not understand this, and blamed me for what was not my fault at all. We were not happy any more, and often I was afraid he was going to leave me.

"I tried lots of so-called remedies but none of them seemed to do me any good. Instead of getting better, I got worse. My liver and kidneys became affected. My skin turned yellowish, with dark brown spots. Even the whites of my eyes got yellow. I had to get up from bed four or five times a night to answer Nature's call, and I had to take physics to get my bowels to move. I had a bad taste in my mouth, and hardly any appetite. Every week I lost weight, 'til I was thin and wrinkled, like an old woman.

"I was in despair when, one day, my sister heard about World's Tonic, and came right over to tell me. She explained that the new soil of America lacks certain important tonic elements, which everyone of European ancestry requires, in order to keep well. World's Tonic is a wonderful new scientific preparation made from roots and herbs gathered in different parts of the world, each in its own proper season. That is why World's Tonic can replace the elements in our systems, which American life wears out. So it can help Europeans, and Americans too, in a way hardly possible with ordinary American remedies.

"I got a bottle of World's Tonic, and I felt its cleansing and tonic effect right away. I kept on taking it and every day I grew stronger. The kidney symptoms disappeared and I was able to get my rest at night without getting up. The bad taste left my mouth, my appetite came back, and I began to gain weight. At the end of four weeks I felt absolutely well. I was plump and strong, and my color was rosy and bright, like it had been when I was a young girl. The trouble between Emil and me went away, like a bad dream. That was a year ago. There is a fine new baby in the cradle now, and we are all as happy as could be. I feel that we owe our happiness to World's Tonic and I write this letter in thankful gratitude."

World's Tonic is on sale at Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley's, Smith's and other modern drug stores. (B-69)

Information On Washington Is Received Here

Valuable Information For Those Planning Programs Sent Chamber Of Commerce

Valuable information for those planning Washington programs of various kinds, together with music designed especially for programs of this nature has been received by the Chamber of Commerce from the George Washington Bi-Centennial Commission.

There is but a limited supply of these books and pamphlets and those desiring them are urged to present their requests early. It is possible that some of these will only be loaned out as there are but a few numbers of some of the pamphlets and songs.

One pamphlet deals with the Character of Washington, while another is a complete history of his life, telling in brief form what outstanding things occurred during each year of his life.

Another book is devoted to programs and papers, containing valuable suggestions for programs of all kinds and papers on the life of Washington of different kinds.

There is one song, "Father of the land we love," which was written expressly for the Washington Bi-Centennial celebration. Another booklet contains various songs of the time of Washington.

Another booklet contains information on Washington which had previously been issued in 16 separate pamphlets. These have all been combined under one cover.

County Must Again Negotiate Loan In Poor Department

Last $20,000 Borrowed Is Rapidly Used Up By Current Bills

With the last $20,000 borrowed by the county for the poor department practically exhausted, the county commissioners are again confronted with the necessity of negotiating another loan.

The county has now borrowed $60,000 since January 7. The last $20,000 was secured on March 27. The reason it has disappeared so quickly, according to County Controller R. C. McCaslin, is that ninety day bills from institutions in which the county is keeping inmates came in and had to be paid. There were also hospital and drug bills.

The bill from Torrence asylum was $215.57; Warren asylum, $783.64; Dixmont asylum, $3,934.86, Farview, $95.84; New Castle hospital, $3,678.-25.

One drug store bill for medicine furnished during three months was $1,095.08, another drug bill is $867.85. This makes a total of $10,671.09 in bills which had to be paid out of the last $20,000, which was borrowed on March 27.

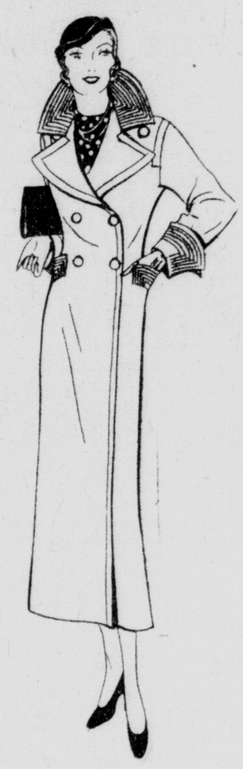

Ordinarily it takes about $20,000 per month to meet the regular expenses of the poor department, such as maintaining the county home, and outside relief.

The outside relief situation is showing practically no let up.

In view of the situation the county commissioners are now trying to negotiate another $20,000 loan to tide them over until the taxes begin to come in.

Spending to save--through
ADVERTISING

Not many of us, these days, are troubled with so much money that we cannot spend it. But we ARE interested in spending the money we have, to get the most out of it.

One way—and not a new way, either—is to make a budget. Put down, week by week, the money that comes in. Put down beside it, week by week, the money that goes out. So much for food, so much for clothing, so much for rent. So much for giving, and for luxuries.

It won't always be easy, of course, to stay within the budget. That's where advertising helps you. Advertisements in this newspaper tell you how much rugs, butter, breakfast foods, dishes, homes, automobiles will cost, BEFORE you go shopping! They point out ways to save money. They show you how to cut a little here, a little there. And each day, they tell about new inventions, new products, new ways of doing things, that help make this life of ours very much worth living!

IMPORTANT
When you ask for a product by name, as a result of advertising, do not accept a substitute—substitutes are offered not as a service to you, but for other reasons.
